December, 1943.

VOL. XXIV., No. 2.

KING EDWARD VI. SCHOOL,
BURY ST. EDMUND'S,
SUFFOLK.

Theadmaster's Notes.

WE all regret the impending departure of the Rev. Dr. Simpson, but he will carry with him our best wishes for the success of his work in the Gold Coast.

Next term we shall welcome to the Staff Miss Laughlin and Mr. Rich, the former teaching Biology, and the latter Chemistry and Physics.

Congratulations to the successful candidates in School Certificate and in Higher School Certificate, and to A. C. T. Hawksley on qualifying for interview in the Naval Special Entry Examination.

Congratulations also to the new School Prefects, J. W. Gilbert, N. B. Williams and B. J. Marriott.

This term our numbers have risen to 223—a record number, and one that represents the capacity of the School.

Speech Day was once again a great success, and the accommodation of the Gymnasium was barely sufficient. We are grateful to Major Heilgers for his address, and for his generous offer of an additional cup.

Very reluctantly we have had to abandon all our Cross Country races with the exception of the one that counts towards the Annual Sports. The shortage of plimsols and football boots has forced this decision on us.

Poppy Day this year brought from the School the magnificent total of £5 7s. 1d. This is by far our best effort.

I should like to remind all leavers of the tradition of presenting a book to the Library, and to ask them to seek advice before selecting a volume.

I would like to offer my sincere thanks to all who have helped to keep the wheels of the Boarding House turning this term. Innumerable and widely varied jobs have been undertaken by a very large number of boys—and I want them to know that their work has been a real help.

Finally, may you all enjoy very happy holidays, a very happy Christmas, and may the New Year bring you, before its close, the fulfilment of the Christmas message—Peace on Earth.

Speech Day.

The Comptroller (Mr. S. M. Oliver, J.P.) presided at the Annual Speech Day of the King Edward VI. Grammar School, Bury St. Edmund's, on Saturday, October 16th.

400th ANNIVERSARY.

The Chairman spoke of the pleasure it gave him to accept the office of Comptroller of the School. Dealing with the proposed Education Bill, Mr. Oliver thought that their school would be able to put up a good case for its continuation as a centre for this type of school in this part of the country. He said that the School would shortly be celebrating the 400th anniversary of its foundation and he suggested that Old Boys would like to revive the Old Boys' Association and to bind themselves together for the subscribing of a memorial to commemorate that notable anniversary.

DUTIES OF EDUCATION.

The Headmaster (Mr. R. W. Elliott) gave his report of the year's working and said that education had two duties (1) to teach youth to do an honest job honestly and (2) to inculcate a new sense of responsibilities as well as of rights. Mr. Elliott acknowledged the hearty co-operation extended to him both by the Governors and the staff. He regretted the impending retirement of the Rev. Dr. Simpson, who had been teaching science. He criticised the School Certificate Examination and favoured the report of the Norwood Committee. The School Certificate Examination was too arbitrary, dividing the candidates into two groups—success or failure. The Norwood Committee recommended a normal class of syllabus designed by the school and controlled by the school. Its effects would be three-fold (1) It would remove the threat of examination; (2) it would remove the feeling of being a complete failure, and (3) it would also remove the feeling of superiority.

RELIGIOUS BASIS OF LIFE.

Dealing with the J.T.C., the Headmaster said that this, the only pre-service organisation and one doing great work for the nation, was the only body compelled to provide its own uniform, and secondly, to be denied an annual camp. The Scouts and Cubs showed continued progress.

In conclusion, Mr. Elliott said that much was said about the awareness of the need of a religious basis of life and that, as a nation, we were in danger of losing our soul. The Education Bill provided religious education for youth. Their School, which dated from 1550, had been founded for this good purpose, which had not been lost sight of, but religious instruction in the form-room was not enough. He was grateful to those boys who maintained tradition by regular attendance at the church services. The number of pupils at present enrolled—222—was a record. (Applause).

Major F. F. A. Heilgers, M.P., presented the prizes, which included the John Greene Bowl for the boy setting the best example, and which was won by A. R. Thomson.

In an address, Major Heilgers congratulated the School on its fine record, but was sorry to see that there was no prize for athletics. He considered that lessons learned on the playing fields were as essential as those in the class-rooms and he would like to offer a prize for the best all-round athlete. (Applause).

BURY GRAMMAR SCHOOL'S POSITION.

Compared with their School, Eton and Winchester were mere fledglings and his school, Harrow, was but a child. He found the School in a far more flourishing condition than six years ago and he thought it was due to the efforts of their present Headmaster. (Hear, hear.)

Dealing with the Government's White Paper, he said that the Bill shortly to be put before the House of Commons was so extensive as to almost cover the seven ages of man—commencing with nursery schools and proceeding by grades to adult education. All children above the age of 11 would receive secondary education. The school age was to be raised to 15, and when sufficient building and accommodation were available it would be further extended to 16. After that there would be part-time education up to the age of 18 in the Young People's Colleges. As their Comptroller had said, they must keep the variety and individuality of their public schools. The new scheme did not mean that all schools would have the same syllabus, direction and uniformity. Their School was a direct grant school and he could assure them that they would not lose their independence or the right of the governing body to elect a substantial portion of their own pupils.

Addressing the boys, Major Heilgers said that their opportunity was before them. Bury St. Edmund's holds a prominent position in the world to-day, greater than its size would warrant, and he liked to think that that distinction was due to that School with its 400 years' history. (Applause).

He concluded by advising them to fear God, serve King and Country, and to make the most of their opportunity, for opportunities lost never return. (Applause).

A vote of thanks to Major Heilgers was proposed by the Mayor (Ald. E. L. D. Lake), who paid tribute to the devoted service to the constituency given by Major Heilgers.

John Bull.

Everyone knows the John Bull of peace-time, with his well-filled figure, his broad, good-natured grin and his patriotic waistcoat. He has appeared in cartoons, has given his name to a brand of tyre, presumably to imply that the tyre too is well-made and sound. He has become a byword in our tongue as the personification of the British character as it is known throughout the world.

The John Bull we know is dressed in rather old-fashioned clothes and has a very "pre-war" look about him. Let us try to imagine what a "utility" John Bull would look like.

The striking point about our new John Bull is his smaller waistline. His comfortable, well-fed appearance is no longer so noticeable. He is still thick-set and well-built, but he is harder and more lean. The flabby flesh which would soon have become a double chin has disappeared. He is not underfed, but it is obvious that he has taken more exercise with his food. His feet are still widely placed but they are not placed so solidly. They have a spring like those of a boxer, who is always on his toes to ensure quick movement.

His face, too, has changed. His forehead is lined with worry. His bushy eyebrows are slightly contracted over his eyes, in which there is no longer a laughing gleam, but in its place is a piercing glint which bodes ill for anyone who is not a friend. Under his eyes are shadows suggesting long hours of work and trying circumstances. His cheeks are less full and his mouth is set in a grim line, although a smile still lurks at the corners. His chin juts out even more than before, exhibiting a forceful, determined, and dogged resolution.

His clothes have been superannuated. His hunting hat has been replaced by a steel helmet covered with khaki camouflage netting. His patriotic waistcoat and tails are discarded in favour of a battle-dress blouse with Home Guard shoulder titles. His knee-breeches are replaced by trousers, his stockings by leather anklets, and his stout buckle shoes by army boots. His hands are no longer in his trouser pockets, but instead they resolutely grip a P-14 rifle.

Even the thoughts in his mind are not spared in this dramatic change. All thoughts of fair play, next Saturday's football match, and frequent family gatherings, are relegated to the back of his mind. Instead he thinks of his even heavier income tax, his Home Guard duties, his fire-watching, the weakness of war-time beer, and the shortage of matches.

There is much to be said in favour of this austerity John Bull. After the war it is essential that we should make a compromise between the Mark I. and II., and introduce a Mark I. A. model. True, it will be pleasant to return to the easy ways of peace, but we must see to it that the warrior element is cultivated sufficiently not only to discourage, but to render impossible, any further attempts at war on the part of others.

B.J.M. (VIth Form).

FOOTBALL REVIEW.

Although we started this term with only five of last season's 1st XI. we have attained quite a high standard of play. No outstanding success has attended our efforts but every match has been contested with the right spirit to the final whistle.

The weather has not been unkind to us as no matches have had to be cancelled. However, we were forced to abandon the County School game early in the second half, when the score was 2—0 in our favour, because of a thick blanket of fog, and the injury to Thomson's arm. We hope to replay this game before the end of term.

The most pleasing features of this term have been the keenness in the competition for places in the first eleven and the promising form displayed by many of the juniors. This has been particularly marked in senior house matches.

N.B.W.

FOOTBALL RESULTS.

1ST XI.	County School	2—2	A.
	Thetford Grammar School	2—7	A.
	Bury Youth Club	1—3	A.
	301 Squadron A.T.C.	2—3	H.
	Thetford Grammar School	2—7	H.
2ND XI.	County School	0—4	H.
	County School	0—2	A.
JUNIOR XI.	County School	3—3	H.
	County School	3—0	A.
	Silver Jubilee School	4—4	A.

CHARACTERS OF THE ELEVEN.

*N. B. WILLIAMS (captain and centre-half). A hard-working, sound player who has inspired his side rather by example than by more "showy" methods. His judgment and positional play are equally sound, but he has been rather reluctant to indulge in attack.

†B. J. MARRIOTT (vice-captain and left-half). A conscientious player who tackles well. Knows how to use his weight, but should try to develop a little more speed when he fully recovers from his injury.

*A. R. THOMSON (right-back). The most improved player in the team. His first-time kicking has often changed defence into attack. Recovers well and covers the ground quickly in spite of his size.

†D. J. E. CLAMP (left-back). A sound player who tackles well and has a strong kick, but he is inclined to wait for the bounce. Could use his head to greater advantage.

A. C. T. HAWKSLEY (right-half). An effective player though he lacks style. He should not kick with his toe; needs a more powerful left foot kick and should cultivate better ball control. An extremely good worker.

†A. B. ROOD (goal). A young player whose enthusiasm more than compensates for his inexperience. Has made several good saves and can be relied upon to clear. A little indiscreet when he has to leave his goal.

D. J. EVANS (inside-left). Although absent most of the term he has played well. Could move much more quickly. Shoots well but should try to put more power into his kicking.

G. C. BAXTER (right-wing). Is fast and quite sound, but should try to vary his tactics. Centres well but must learn to do some of his own foraging.

D. W. CHARMBURY (inside-right). Does not move as quickly as he should. Must pass with greater accuracy and at the correct moment. Could improve his shooting. Works hard.

P. MILLER (centre-forward). A keen player who lacks science. Works hard, irrespective of the size of his opponent. Is very fast, but should shoot instead of trying to dribble round the goal-keeper.

A. T. RUDDOCK (left-wing). Has filled a difficult position with credit. Should get off the mark more quickly and must pass in front of the forward line. Has a powerful shot with his right foot. Must use his head and not try to kick a ball which is above his head.

Also played—

J. F. FORDHAM (inside-right). A young player whose size is no handicap. Ball control good, and shooting accurate, but must try to learn from experience. An inside forward must keep up with the game.

J. SYRETT (inside-left). A small player who uses his head well, but is reluctant to tackle or be tackled. Passes accurately. Quite a useful shot.

P. F. WEBB (left-back). A very promising back who has worked hard and with some success. Should try to develop a more powerful kick. Very tenacious.

F. R. HERBERT (goal). Has played well in goal in spite of lack of practice. Clears well but should try to catch the ball instead of punching it.

* Full Colours. † Half-Colours.

J.T.C. Notes.

Humdrum as the term's work has appeared, yet a considerable amount of useful work, extraneous to the immediate needs of Certificate "A," has been done.

One of the high lights of the term was our Field Day in the Hawstead area in November. The exercise, an approach march by day, followed by an approach march by night, was very well done indeed. When one considers that the average distance covered was 10 miles, of which a fair proportion was cross-country, then the condition of the cadets and the control of the N.C.O.'s must have been very good. We must not leave this subject without thanking Miss Kilpatrick (Miss David) for her invaluable assistance with tea—how good it tasted!

We were very pleased to have a return visit from an old friend in a new rank, Major Buck. This time he was paratroop conscious, and most interesting were the things he caused to be done for our enlightenment. An earlier visit from the Sigs. Officer, Sub-District, was much appreciated, giving an insight into how the army does such things.

This term's recruits are shaping well, and their numbers were very satisfying, bringing the corps well up to its established strength.

A T.E.W.T., organised by the Post Certificate "A" class under Mr. Morgan, was very well done and shows much promise for the future.

Scout Notes.

This term we have welcomed 18 new members, including 7 cubs from our cub pack. Several of these are now ready for investiture.

Butterfield, Dorey and Marshall ii. have been promoted to the rank of patrol leader. Burke is now a first-class scout, and we are sorry that he will be leaving at the end of this term.

It is encouraging to note that 18 of the older boys who have joined the J.T.C. have remained in the scout troop. Our total membership is 82. The point system is being revised so as to encourage more first-class work and general scouting ability rather than proficiency badge work, and no competition results will be announced until next term. D.A.Y.

Cub Notes.

There are now 43 boys in the pack. At the beginning of this term we had our first Going Up Ceremony, when Rush i., Rush ii., Meadows, Hunnable, Dodds ii., Potter i., and Pike left us to join the scouts. We wish them happy hunting and good scouting.

Snell (white), Hunter i. (grey), Seddon (tawny) and Abbott i. (red) have been chosen as Sixers this term. Our cub work is progressing, and several more cubs have gained their First Star. E.M.K.

Savings Notes.

The total sum raised this term is £56. We aimed at £100 by the end of November, but the number of members is still disappointingly low, and we feel sure that there must be a number of boys who could contribute something each week, however small the amount they could afford. D.A.Y.

On the whole this term has passed quietly, although the failure of the electric light in Bury caused a diversion, and provided some boys with a much needed excuse. The weather has been fairly kind to us and we have been able to play off most of our School and House matches on time. One match, however, had to be postponed because of a heavy mist which prevented one seeing the goals from the half-way line.

The Lancastrian House is top in Sport, with Tudors a close second. After a strenuous and very exciting game, the Lancs. beat the Tudors 3—2. The Yorks have not lived up to their past successes this year, owing to the greater part of their team leaving. The Tudors lead in work, conduct and punctuality, and it is up to every Tudor to see that his House keeps this lead. The Yorks are second in work, while the Lancs. are close behind the Tudors in punctuality and conduct.

The Royalist v. Foreigner match was very closely contested. The Foreigners scored three goals in the first half and two in the second. The Royalists, in the second half, broke through the Foreigners' defence, weakened by the absence of Thomson, and managed to score four goals. Hence, in the last year, the Foreigners have the hockey and football to their credit, while the Royalists have the cricket.

The Debating Society has had several meetings this term. Attendance, which, with a few exceptions, has been limited to Boarders, has been rather poor. Perhaps the most successful meeting was the Quiz Bee. However, it showed up a surprising lack of general knowledge among some of the older boys.

We are glad to hear that Gardiner and Williams gained Higher School Certificate and offer them our congratulations. Thomson and Marriott are also to be congratulated on becoming School Prefects. A.C.T.H.

Old Boys' Notes.

It was with the deepest regret that we heard of the death of Mr. J. Leofric Hunter. Although many years had passed since he left School, he was very interested in its well-being. We offer Mrs. Hunter our sincere sympathy.

Once again we have heard from two faithful correspondents—H. S. Sanders (East Africa) and C. R. Paine (Central Mediterranean). Sanders encloses a copy of a letter from P. G. Tilbrook (Pilot Officer), now in Kenya, who speaks of his brother Harry as a Wireless Operator serving in Ceylon. We congratulate Harry Tilbrook on the birth of his daughter. Paine sent us his Burian subscription from Sicily (written under a lemon tree), where our July issue had just reached him. Since receiving Paine's letter we have had the pleasure of a visit from him. He still retains his Sicilian tan, and is able to give a very thrilling account of his activities in North Africa and in the first landing on Sicily. When his Battery Commander was wounded he took over the command until he parted company with his motor cycle.

We congratulate P. E. Brassel on his success in the B.D. examination last July. He is now at Ridley Hall, Cambridge. He recently met Peter Boughton.

A. R. Gilchrist has now left Rhodesia, where he had met Hempstead, who had started his training as Pilot.

A letter from F. H. Jones (British Central Med. Forces). He speaks of having received the Burian under the usual odd circumstances, but does not feel that he can be very explicit about them. However, he commiserates with us on our wet Sports Day and says that he is now away from the rain of Tunisia in a place where you know whether it will or will not rain. Just to rub it in he enumerates fully the types of fruit he may have for the mere picking.

Congratulations to R. F. H. Pughe on his D.F.C. Has been doing photographic work for some time. Congratulations, too, to S. J. H. Pughe on his promotion to Captain.

We recently received Christmas greetings from Donald Jamblin—still with the West Africa Forces.

We have been pleased to see D. M. Gardiner and M. D. Forster at School this term. Each seems to be enjoying Cambridge in his own way. We wish them the best of luck in their examinations.

Our very best wishes go to J. L. Gardiner who has found a partner in the W.A.A.F., and to P. W. K. Mitchell who, we understand, was married in May.

We were very pleased to hear that L. McA. Westall has made a highly successful recovery from a double major operation, and we wish him many years of continued good health.

R. F. Boughton is now studying Engineering at Birmingham.

We understand that B. G. King is now in the Indian Army and that Gordon King is in Cairo.
